Do you want to work in radio?

Do you want your demo to make an impact?

Have you been considering a career as a radio presenter?

Radio can be a great industry to work in. As a presenter, you quickly become a familiar voice to thousands of everyday people listening in the office, in their car, on their walkman and in their home. They associate you with the music they enjoy listening to and, perhaps most importantly, you become their friend.

Great job - tough competition

Being a radio presenter is undoubtedly a great job. You entertain and inform your listener base with a mixture of news, views and good humour and play good music along the way. Most of us have our favourite radio station and it's wonderful to be part a team of people who provide this service on a daily basis. The flipside is that there are literally thousands of keen and budding radio presenters out there, all looking to make their break. The competition is enormous.

Stand out from the crowd - make an impact!

Getting into the world of radio can be tough. For most of us, our first contact with a radio station's Programme Controller will be through our demo, which will probably be one of several they have received that week. Hundreds of demos are sent to hundreds of Programme Controllers every week and it is a sad fact that many are rejected almost immediately. Your demo represents you; not only your skills as a radio presenter but the sort of person you are. If little effort has gone into how your demo package is presented when it lands on the Programme Controller's desk, it may not even get listened to.

Let us produce and package your demo.

On-a-Hi 24/7 Productions offer a specialist service in demo production and a range of services to make your demo not only sound great, but look the part as well.

- You provide the voice links, we digitally mix and produce the rest
- Several options for CD layout
- CD cover artwork can be designed to your specific requirements
- Professional looking CD cover including your photo, details, introduction and mini-CV
- CD contents track listing
- Fully labelled CD including your details

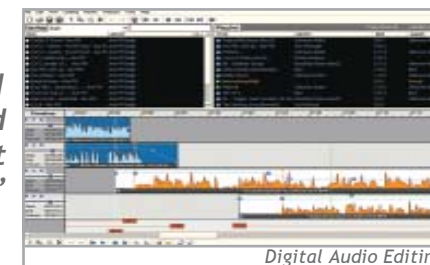

Emailable MP3 Demo with Resume in PDF* Format

As computer technology continues to evolve at an ever-increasing rate, communication via the internet has become virtually instantaneous. When advertising for a new presenter, some radio stations invite applicants to submit a short MP3 demo in the first instance. If set up correctly, this can simply be emailed as an attachment.

Using the same digital audio editing techniques, On-a-hi 24/7 is able to create a fully produced 2-minute demo from the voice links you supply and turn it into a 1Mb MP3 file ready for emailing regardless of your connection speed to the internet.

But why wait for an advert? Why not introduce yourself to the Programme Controller of the radio stations you wish to work for by emailing an MP3 demo along with a copy of your CV, which On-a-Hi 24/7 can create for you in pdf format.

“Each link edited and mixed to perfection and produced to the highest quality digital audio”

Make It Happen!

To help you get your demo produced and distributed as quickly as possible, we have designed a choice of CD booklet templates; leaving you free to focus your efforts on recording your links. However, we understand that creating your demo is a very personal thing and at On-a-Hi 24/7, we recognise that you may have your own specific requirements and designs and will be happy to discuss these with you.

For a detailed information pack, including On-a-Hi 24/7's Radio Presenter's Demo Production Guide, tips on recording your demo, what to include, what to avoid, CD booklet templates and a simple procedure to follow to help you get the required material to us, please complete and return the tear off slip below or telephone/ email with your details.
